

The National College Advocacy Group

NCAG MISSION

The National College Advocacy Group (NCAG) is a non-profit organization responding to the myriad of challenges facing college bound students and their families. The NCAG is a membership organization offering advocacy for college bound families at all levels - individual, local, state and national. The NCAG collects and disseminates information needed to make informed decisions on all areas related to higher education.

What We Do

One of the goals of the National College Advocacy Group (NCAG) is to inform students, families, and advisors about college topics impacting their college decisions. We focus on:

- Providing families with the knowledge to be able to find the best path to allow their children to attend college
- Providing professional college advisors with the knowledge to best serve those families that come to them for service
- Advocating for families and advisors with the United States government to improve the accessibility of college for families.
